A far-seeing symbol.

The midshipman has proved an enduring symbol for Gundelfingers, epitomising our search for excellence in the fields of shipping, transportation and travel.

In the beginning...

Kurt Gundelfinger's affection for the sea and ships owed nothing to his birthplace. For he was born and raised in Pretoria where he established his own clearing and forwarding business in 1939.

Came the war and his automatic choice was the S.A. Naval Forces - in which he saw service, both as a rating and as an officer.

The post-war years brought steady growth to Gundelfingers in the shape of new branch offices, company take-overs, the first ship's agency and even the purchase of an old coaling ship.

Andrew, the only son, joined the business in 1973 after graduating in electrical engineering at Wits University and his arrival proved timely for later in the same year his father was forced to retire through ill health which terminated in his death in Johannesburg in 1975.

The financial district of Johannesburg has grown up around Manifest House, head office and home to us since our inception in 1939.

Over a period of close to 50 years we have built up an international network of which we are proud.

However distantly situated, our agents are all close to us and we talk to many of them by telex or telephone on a daily basis.

In this way they have become an extension of ourselves and, for our clients this means the self-same conscientious Gundelfinger attention to detail in almost any part of the world.

The world at our fingertips

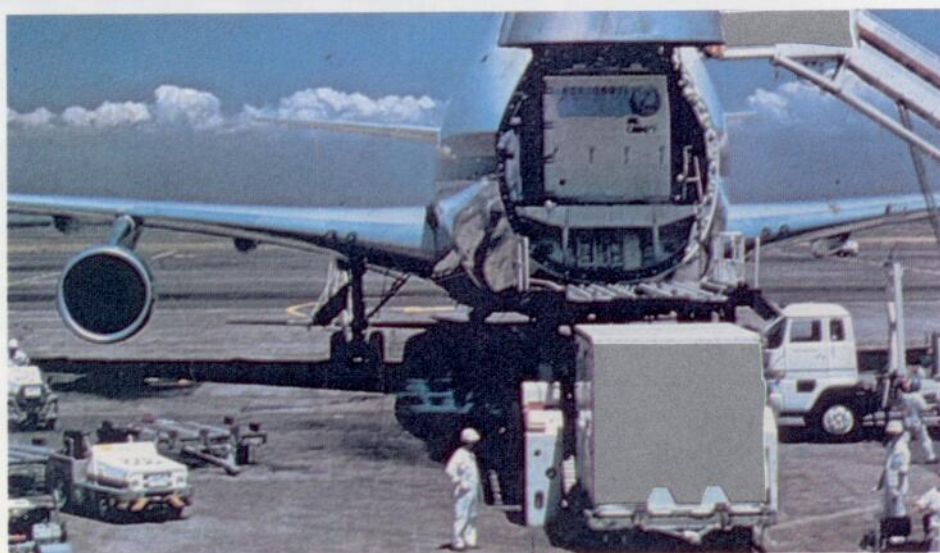

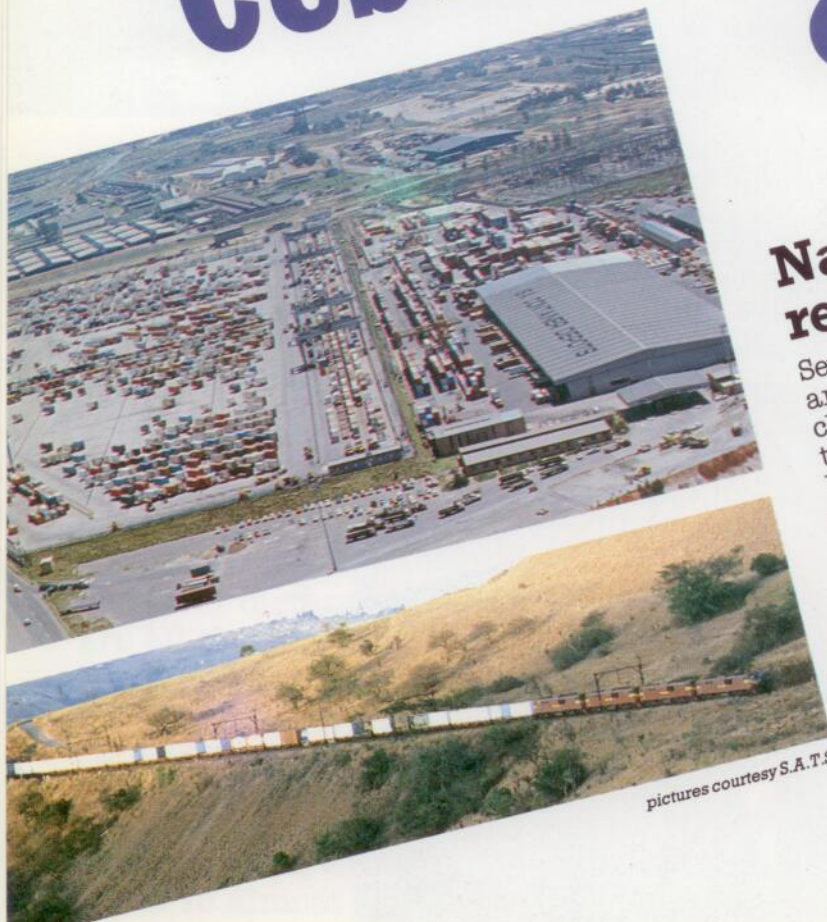

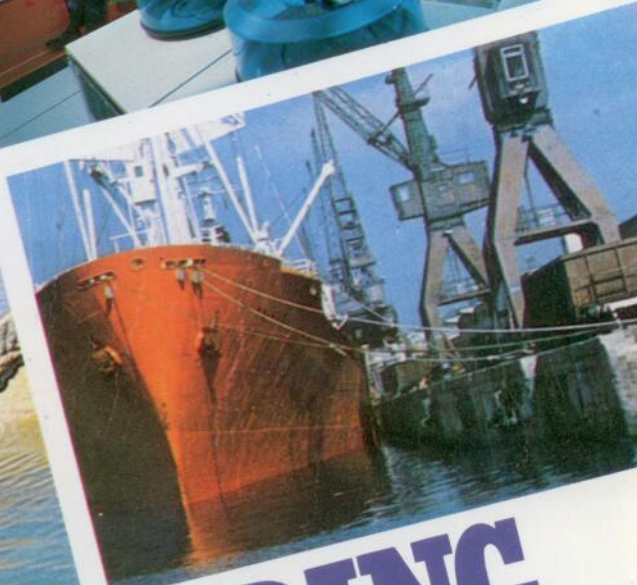

INTERNATIONAL FORWARDING

Taking care in getting it there

When your cargo is entrusted to Gundelfingers or to any of our hand-picked agents in our world-wide network it is with friends. Our larger agents are in almost daily contact with us and each of the others we know personally.

The briefest instructions will ensure safe forwarding - by road, rail, sea or air - and the same sympathetic handling at the other end that we give at this.

CUSTOMS CLEARING & EXPORTS

Navigating a sea of red tape

Seven wholly-owned offices in the Republic and Mocambique specialise in customs clearance, marine insurance and delivery through to final destination. With almost 50 years experience, we are still young enough to keep completely up-to-date in the interests of providing an even better service, utilising top calibre staff and an in-house on-line computer network. And although we're the largest independent clearing agent in South Africa, we're small enough to deal on a personal level with all our Clients.

AIR FREIGHT

A top-level service

Our central office at Jan Smuts Airport works closely with trained staff at our branches and with a network of world-wide agencies to ensure efficient and cost-effective service. As is the case in all other areas of the company, we have optimized the use of computers. Our clients enjoy two special benefits. Care and consolidation. Care is a matter of having the right people in the right places. Consolidation offers big savings in the form of rate benefits. Our client list is impressively varied and among the more unusual are exporters of coins, semi-precious stones and radio active material. And if we tell you that we have handled consignments of every kind of live animal from day old chicks to elephants, you'll know that we can airlift almost anything almost anywhere.

WAREHOUSING

A store of experience

Free and bonded storage at our own controlled warehouses in Johannesburg, Durban and Cape Town has become doubly important since the advent of containerisation. Specialised facilities include our own radio-despatched trucks as well as modern dock levellers and low mast fork-lifts to facilitate the handling of containers. In addition, our computerised stock control system links all our warehouses together. Cargoes moving through our warehouses include bagged maize in bulk, precious metals and stones, machinery, china and crockery and we have particular expertise in the bulk storing and distribution of chemicals (both industrial and commercial).
